

RAQUEL SEPULVEDA BOND

BILINGUAL MENTAL HEALTH THERAPIST

Raquel Sepulveda Bond: Born in Puerto Rico. Daughter of Baptist Missionaries, learned the importance of helping others from a very early age, and had exposure to the diverse needs of the communities she visited. This inspired her to study a career in the social field. In 1998 she started her studies in Psychology and graduated from the University of Puerto Rico obtaining her Bachelor's Degree in that field in the year 2003. After this, she went on to complete her post-graduate studies at the Carlos Albizu University in San Juan, Puerto Rico and graduated in the year 2010 obtaining her Doctorate's Degree in Clinical Psychology. Throughout the years she has served a diverse population, both in her homeland and in the United States, as she has been residing in Columbus, Ohio for the past fifteen years and working with clients such as the Deaf and Hispanic community, and individuals with different disabilities. In her free time she enjoys music and art, as well as cyber-communications.
